Clinical Programs

Drake Law students have an edge in the courtroom, and with clients.

We are the only school in the country where all first-year classes shift to the courtroom for a week. The First-Year Trial Practicum every spring exposes students to the law in a way no textbook ever could.

Students do the work of real attorneys in one—or more—of our eight clinical programs. They represent clients, lobby for legislation change, and go to trial. Our students participate in clinics at a higher rate than peer institutions.
