ORDERING COURSE PACKETS

OPEN DOMAIN CONTENT OR YOUR OWN CONTENT

- Provide a PDF or hard copy to the University Bookstore.
- Include instructions on how you want the course packet printed, bound or packaged. Generally speaking, most professors have them printed on white paper, three hole punched and wrapped in plastic. Production can range from simple to very fancy; you can customize it to what you want. Costs increase with the complexity in printing and binding.
- Master copies of your course packets are due to the bookstore one month before the first day of class.
- These course packets are printed locally at Office Max and can be restocked within 24-hours if necessary.

COPYRIGHTED CONTENT

- Provide a copy of the out of print book, articles, or chapters of books, along with bibliography information to the University Bookstore.
- Like above, include instructions on how you want the course pack printed, bound or packaged. The bookstore will complete an order form for copyright clearance and royalty payments. The bookstore will forward the order form and the materials to our vendor for custom publishing.
- Once received, the vendor will provide an itemized breakdown of fees. Faculty then has the opportunity to edit the content before printing. If desired, you can also request a proof copy prior to production.
- Lead time on this process can be up to 6 weeks. Orders for copyrighted content are due to the bookstore two months before the first day of class.

OTHER OPTIONS FOR CUSTOM PRODUCT

- Our custom publishing vendor is LAD Custom Publishing. Beyond printed course packs, LAD offers many other services we can use. Their website; www.ladustompub.com is very helpful and outlines all of the available services.
- Digital content is available in various formats; CD/DVD, iPad/iPhone app, or encrypted online delivery.
- LAD also has partnerships with Harvard Business Publishing, and other case providers like Darden, Ivey and MIT.

Stop in today to learn more!