2017 Keynote Speaker

The Honorable Solomon Oliver Jr.

Chief Judge
United States District Court
Northern District of Ohio

Solomon Oliver Jr. was appointed to the U.S. District Court for the Northern District of Ohio by President Bill Clinton on May 9, 1994. He has served as chief judge since June 1, 2010.

Born and raised in Bessemer, Ala., Oliver received his bachelor's degree in philosophy and political science from the College of Wooster in 1969, his JD from New York University in 1972, and his master's degree in political science from Case Western Reserve University in 1974.

Oliver worked as an assistant professor of political science at the College of Wooster, law clerk to Judge William H. Hastie of the U.S. Third Circuit Court of Appeals, and assistant U.S. attorney for the U.S. Department of Justice in Cleveland. In 1978, he became chief of the civil section of the U.S. Attorney's Office, and in 1982, he was named chief of appellate litigation in that office.

He also presided over a consent decree between the city of Cleveland and the U.S. Department of Justice to create reforms within the Cleveland Division of Police.

Oliver joined the Cleveland-Marshall College of Law faculty at Cleveland State University in 1982 and later served as associate dean of faculty and administration. He has written articles and lectured on a wide range of topics, including delivering an address at the historic Sixteenth Street Baptist Church in commemoration of the civil rights movement in 2013.

Among his many accolades, Oliver has received the Distinguished Alumni Award from the College of Wooster, the Distinguished Alumni Award from the New York University Black, Latino, Asian Pacific American Law Alumni Association, and the Trailblazer Award from the Norman S. The Supreme Court Competition

Each year, outstanding advocates in the Law School compete in the Supreme Court Competition for the honor of presenting final arguments to the Iowa Supreme Court. The problem is based on a real case, using an actual record that was pending before the Iowa Supreme Court, thus giving competitors a realistic experience.

The competition is open to all second- and third-year law students and consists of writing a brief and arguing in two preliminary rounds, one on-brief and one off-brief. Each competitor argues individually in the preliminary rounds, with 15 minutes of time allocated to each advocate. The top four advocates based upon scores from the preliminary rounds advance to the final round before the Iowa Supreme Court. The award for Best Oralist in the final round is announced at the Supreme Court Celebration Banquet.

2017 Supreme Court Competition Problem

Dexter C. Morgan, Petitioner v. State of Iowa, Respondent

On Oct. 29, 2007, DEXTER C. MORGAN was involved in a single vehicle accident in northeastern Polk County, Iowa. The Defendant's upper body was ejected out the driver's side window. Ross Geller was taken to a local hospital. Brittney Apple and Caty Langford were pronounced dead at the scene.

Based upon a myriad of factors, law enforcement officers suspected that Morgan may have been driving while intoxicated and determined that a blood sample should be collected. However, the Defendant had to be air-lifted from the Des Moines Sports Complex to the Drake Medical Center in Sioux Falls, S.D. Law enforcement was unable to obtain a sample of his blood for chemical testing until over four hours after the accident. The county attorney's office sent the DCI information to an expert toxicologist for retrograde extrapolation calculation, which determined Morgan's blood alcohol concentration at the time of the crash was somewhere between .11 and .13.

In August 2009, the trial court filed an order overruling trial counsel's motion to suppress the "test results, blood sample, blood kit and all related evidence" on multiple grounds. Specifically, the trial court ruled on issues regarding implied consent, alleged failure to preserve the blood sample and inability to obtain an independent test, and the physician's obtaining a blood sample rather than breath or urine.

On Oct. 16, 2009, the trial court found Morgan guilty. After exhausting his appeals, on April 25, 2012, Morgan filed an application for post-conviction relief, alleging that his trial counsel and appellate counsel were ineffective in a number of respects, including: (1) failing to suppress the blood sample collected by an Iowa officer in South Dakota; and (2) failing to challenge the admissibility of the state's expert testimony on retrograde extrapolation. These matters are now before the court for a final determination.
