

FALL 2019 & SPRING 2020 GRADUATION SPECIAL: CELEBRATING OUR SENIORS

Clara Avenarius is a Spring 2020 graduate of the LPS Department. Her favorite memories include all of the off-topic, yet very educational conversations in Senior Seminar with Professor Cramer. Clara is looking forward to a relaxing summer before she begins Drake Law in the fall.

Madelyn Björk is a Spring 2020 LPS graduate. She will never forget her last undergraduate class where she, Professor Cramer, and her peers praised each other for their perseverance throughout the semester and their undying appreciation for LPS. As if she didn't know it already, that was when Madelyn knew that this program is something special and so dear to her heart. Once the class was over, she cried tears of joy to her roommates as she couldn't help but express her love and admiration for her LPS family. Madelyn looks forward to her Fulbright as a Bulgaria English Teaching Assistant.

Kameron E. Brown is a Spring 2020 graduate of the LPS department. His favorite memory: "LSD is probably the safest drug you can take" -Dr. Kliethermes. Kameron looks forward to taking a break amidst the chaos before going to law school.

Payton Clerc is a Spring 2020 graduate of the LPS department. After graduating, Payton will be a 2L at Drake Law and looks forward to taking those classes.

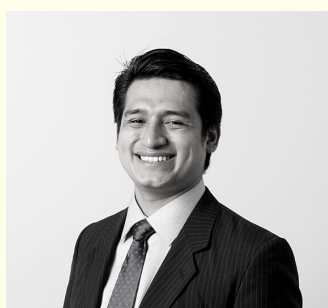

Joanna Drake is a Spring 2020 graduate of the LPS department. Her favorite memory is when Lucky and Clementine came to class! After graduation, Joanna looks forward to being able to read books without being forced to analyze them.

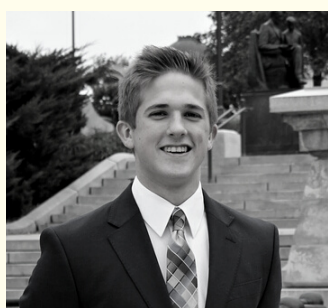

Madeline Dwelle is a Spring 2020 graduate from the LPS Department. Her favorite memory is working with Professor Iverson, Drake Legal Clinic, and Justice For Our Neighbors to assist refugees in their applications to become US citizens. She never thought she would be afforded an opportunity like that as an undergraduate. Madeline looks forward to her move to DC where she'll be interning with Sen. Grassley and Sen. Ernst.

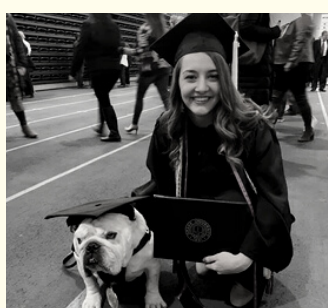

Anna Gabalski is a Spring 2020 graduate of the LPS Department. Her favorite memory is meeting fellow LPS students and Professor Cramer at her summer orientation before the start of her freshman year. Everyone was so kind and welcoming and those feelings are still there even during finals week of her senior year. Post grad, Anna is most excited to use what she's learned to help create change.

Jose Garcia-Fuerte is a Spring 2020 graduate of the LPS Department. His favorite memory is getting to meet LPS faculty's families including spouses, children, and dogs (miss u, Lucky). He looks forward to applying his LPS aptitude to all future professional work to make the world a better place.

Joseph Miller is a Spring 2020 graduate of the LPS Department. His favorite memory is his first ever LPS class with Professor Holdren. He looks forward to gainful employment.

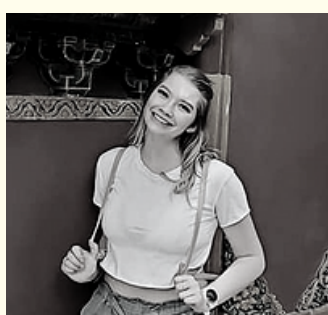

Sloan Nickel is a Fall 2019 graduate of the LPS Department. Her favorite memory is planning the Spring 2019 student relays and seeing it come to a near perfect execution. She loved being a part of a classic Drake tradition and seeing all of the students have a blast. Sloan spent her spring semester clerking at the Capitol for Representative Chris Hagenow and now looks forward to starting Gonzaga Law in the fall.

Maddelyn Stuve is a Spring 2020 LPS graduate. Her favorite memory is from freshman year, before she declared the major. Her classmates in LPS002 voted her as contributing the most to the class, and Cramer sent her their comments. They really shaped how she viewed college classes for the better, and she still thinks about what they said. Maddelyn looks forward to putting what she's learned in LPS to good use - what that use is, she doesn't know, but she guarantees it'll be powerful.

Kristin Thompson is a Spring 2020 graduate of the LPS Department. Her favorite memory is attending the relays concert sophomore year with her best friends. After graduation, Kristin looks forward to starting law school at the University of Minnesota this fall.

Kameron Tomes is a Spring 2020 graduate of the LPS Department. Her favorite memory of LPS is when Professor Cramer's Senior Seminar went outside and just talked about life while taking a walk. Kameron looks forward to showing off her LPS knowledge in law school and taking every perspective into account when interpreting law.
