HONORARY DEGREE

Statement of Purpose

Drake University awards honorary degrees that recognize the outstanding achievements of individuals in various fields of endeavor, thereby expressing University values and inspiring excellence.

Overview

Granting honorary degrees is an important tradition in academia. They recognize intellectual, creative, or humanitarian achievements across many fields of excellence.

A maximum of two Honorary Degrees may be awarded each year. Drake Medals need not be awarded every year.

Drake University awarded its first honorary degrees in 1884. A full list of past recipients can be found at

<https://www.drake.edu/president/historicalresources/honorarydegreesawardedbydrakeuniversity/>

Requirements for Honorary Degree Nominations

For an individual to be considered for an Honorary Degree, the following materials should be submitted to the Honorary Degree and Drake Medal committee:

- A completed nomination form
- Letter of nomination
- 2-3 letters of additional support
- Resume or CV (as appropriate)
- Other supporting documentation specific to the nominee

Honorary degrees are not intended to recognize contributions or connections to Drake University, although contributions or connections to Drake University do not preclude consideration for an honorary degree.

Past receipts of the Drake Medal or other Drake University awards may be considered for an honorary degree.

Current Drake University administrators, faculty, and staff as well as in-office or campaigning politicians are excluded from consideration.

Criteria

Honorary Degree nominees are evaluated on the following considerations:

- Outstanding and sustained achievement of a caliber that exemplifies and encourages excellence. Achievement may be intellectual, creative, or humanitarian in nature.
- Achievement that reflects Drake University's mission and values, including but not limited to intellectual and moral development, the pursuit of truth, and responsible global citizenship. Read more about Drake University's mission and values at <https://www.drake.edu/about/mission/>
- Honorary degrees recognize excellence across many field. There should not be a preponderance of degrees given in any one field.
