American Association of Pharmaceutical Scientists

AAPS is the American Association of Pharmaceutical Scientists. AAPS' mission is "to advance the capacity of pharmaceutical scientists to develop products and therapies that improve global healthcare concerned with the discovery, development, and commercialization of new products and therapies which improve global health." AAPS members gain information and the ability to network with students and professionals from throughout the pharmaceutical industry, whether their interests lie in the drug development/clinical trial process, regulatory affairs, or the delivery of those therapies to patients. In addition to networking, AAPS hosts speakers to Drake's campus to describe their career in the pharmaceutical industry. These speakers in the past have come from organizations such as AbbVie and Bristol-Myers Squibb.
